

ABSTRACT

A transparent composite has a first layer of a transparent substrate polymer material and a second layer of a transparent fluorocarbon polymer film. The second layer is bonded to the first layer either by an adhesive, by a heat process or by a chemical vapor deposition process.